About Jim Gold

Jim Gold is a folk dance teacher, choreographer, musician, tour organizer, and leader of international travel groups. His search for new discoveries, blended with his love of travel and easy humor, makes traveling with him a delight. He leads trips to exotic countries as Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey, Israel, Norway, Poland, Armenia, Hungary, Croatia, and Slovenia. Jim is also a classical and folk guitarist. His one-man show: "An Evening with Jim Gold" has appeared on TV and in schools and universities throughout the USA while his varied life is chronicled in ten books which he has written. The latest title – Zany! An Entrepreneur's Guide to the Next Universe, gives you an idea of his unique humor and imaginative business approach.

About Joe Freedman: Joe's interest in international folk dancing and folk guitar began at 12 years old in St. Louis. He holds undergraduate degrees from Columbia University and The Jewish Theological Seminary, and a doctorate in education from Columbia Teachers College. In New York he studied Israeli dance instruction with the legendary Fred Berk. In 1980 he and his wife moved to Israel where he organized educational tours as director of the Ramah Programs in Israel. A licensed Israeli tour guide and certified Israeli folk dance instructor, Joe loves connecting Israeli music and dance to sites in Israel and sharing his enthusiasm about the country with tourists.

About Lee Friedman

Lee Friedman has been dancing for over 40 years. She first started doing International Dancing with Lenny Johnson on the steps of the Philadelphia Art Museum. The 70's and 80's were the golden years of dancing in Philadelphia and she would do International dancing 4 nights a week. From there she discovered Israeli, Contras, Swing, Scandinavian, Cajun, and Zydeco dancing. Over the years she has taught International and Israeli Dancing at a variety of venues, including The Old Songs Festival, The Philadelphia Folk Song Society and, for Temples, Bat Mitzvahs, and adult groups. Since retiring from the Philadelphia School System, she has been traveling a lot with Jim Gold, Yves Moreau, and Steve Kotansky to learn dancing in some of the countries where they originated and to see the countries and meet the people who live there.
